

AGRICULTURE

ANIMAL crossword

ACROSS

1. This animal can farrow (give birth to) up to 16 babies at one time.
5. This is put in the ear of livestock to identify each animal for their health and for food safety.
7. An adult male is a Tom and a female is a Hen. Thanksgiving meals often feature this animal.
10. This kind of cow can produce up to 128 glasses of milk a day.
11. The wool from this animal is sheared and used for clothing, blankets, carpets, insulation and even on piano hammers.
12. This keeps farm animals inside a pasture and predators out.
13. Herds of this large mammal used to roam wild on the Prairies and are now farmed for their meat and hides.
14. Used on ranches and for recreational riding, this animal can also be used for its pulling power on farms.
15. While these animals are raised for beef to eat, all of the other parts of the animal are used to make other products like cosmetics, soaps, glue, crayons and leather items.

DOWN

1. Open grassland that farm animals, like beef cattle, dairy cows, sheep, and goats, can graze on.
2. One of the earliest domesticated animals, it is used for milk, meat and their hide. Both males and females have beards!
3. This animal is often used to guard sheep, keeping them safe from coyotes and other predators.
4. This kind of doctor looks after farm animals or pets when they get sick.
6. This kind of poultry, raised for its meat, is called a broiler.
8. A layer chicken, called a hen, can make (lay) up to 320 of these in one year.
9. This pollinator was introduced to N. America from Europe in 1622 and is known for the sweet food and wax it produces. (two words)